HUALALAI GOLF COURSE NAMED TOP COURSE IN NEW GOLF GUIDEBOOK

The Four Seasons Resort Hualalai at Historic Ka'upulehu's championship golf course received top honors in The Golf Fanatic's Guide to Hawaii, a new travel guide to the top 50 publicly accessible courses in the Aloha State.

In the introduction to the Hualalai section, author and former Big Island resident Bryan Fryklund wrote: "With a spectacular level of service, facilities, and golf, this sumptuous Four Seasons Resort is the top destination in this book. There is simply nothing to dislike here."

Hualalai Golf Course is prominently featured in the book's Top Ten lists, appearing on the lists of Top Ten Classics, Beauties, Practice Facilities and Ocean Holes (for #17). The Hualalai Grille by Alan Wong made the list of Top 19th Pukas, which Fryklund called "one of the finest places to dine on the island."

Golf courses are not ranked within the top ten lists in the book.

Fryklund also favorably reviewed the resort's hotel accommodations, writing, "For laid-back luxury in one of the world's most beautiful settings, there are few options that can rival the Four Seasons Resort Hualalai."

Hot Tub Publishing also chose to feature an aerial view of Hualalai Golf Course in the introduction to the chapter on the Big Island.

"What can I say? It's hard not to love Hualalai," Fryklund said. "Every experience I've had there has been fantastic."

PGA star Ernie Els wrote the foreword to The Golf Fanatic's Guide to Hawaii, which has a publication date of November 11, 2008. For more information, visit www.HotTubPublishing.com.
